

TIMES-DISPATCH THIEVES CAUGHT

They Get Ninety Days in the City Jail As Their Share.

UNIUS LOVES HIS FAMILY

etcher Attempts to Cut Out Hargrove's Heart—Other Pleasantries.

Justice John yesterday morning had a number of distinguished visitors to listen to those witty words of wisdom that fall in disjointed ripples from his classic lips.

Hon. N. B. Early, the Hon. Mr. Lewis, and the Hon. Mr. Glenn, all members of the wise and great Legislature which is now in session, sat at the feet of the Police Court and laughed at polite intervals.

The short-haired gentry were also much in evidence, and the line of serious looking, unintelligent seeing males, in whose head an idea would rattle like a buckshot in a gourd, sat solemnly in the front row and revelled in intellectual mirth.

Justice John having announced that he was feeling ace high, having paid his compliments to Captain Galloway, who, he said, always delayed justice, having announced that the Hon. Mr. Glenn was playing an extremely small part in the Legislature, took a fresh bit of tobacco and his seat upon the bench.

There were drunks in a long line, but Monday is a day of mercy with His Honor, as far as the "soaks" are concerned, and so most of them, adorned with a large and arid thirst, departed, free men, in quest of the nearest bar.

Junius Wouldn't Work.

Junius E. Lee, a white individual, generally out of repair, was hiked to the bar of justice for his ancient father, charged with making "Home, Sweet Home," a howling wilderness. Junius, who may have written the letters, was too strong to work, and so yearned for the society of his parents to such an extent that he ate and barked at papa's expense and refused to leave the family roof tree, believing in that classical quotation, "What's the use of working while papa's got his hands?"

Father seemed willing, nay, anxious to part with his mature offspring. "I'll go if you'll turn me loose," said Junius. "I'll give you my word, even if my feet are sore and I need a dotting parent's love."

"It's up to you," said J. J., turning to the parent. "Say the word."

Father said the word, and Junius departed.

John W. Scott, white and shopworn, was charged with being drunk. "It's true, Your Honor."

"You're two honest to be in jail. Get thee gone," quoth the great dispenser of justice.

Willie Adams, a negro youth, threw bricks in Mary Scott's parlor down in State House Avenue. There was a hot line of conversation as a prologue, which caused great shudders of horror to convulse the society people in Cat Fish Row. Willie paid $5.00 for his judicial ways.

After Willie Fox had allowed Becky Martin to count out a $3.20 fine for one drunk, Fanny Davis, an "Injun" negro, bounced upon the scene, charged with keeping a hellhouse residence.

It developed that Fanny and a friend, James Currie by name, became engaged in a friendly scuffle for a bottle of whiskey, and that during the pleasurable Fanny hit James with a lump of coal and also cut a generous slice of his neck. James resembles a football player in the head of that third game.

When the smoke cleared away Fanny paid $12.50 and returned to the green pastures of Jackson Ward.

Fond of Good Literature.

Susan Hill threatened to kill James Taylor. She failed to accomplish her fell purpose, but clipped in $4.10 to the general fund, notwithstanding.

Robert Morton, colored, and Venerable Harkey, white, (kindling fondness for literature at the station time of day), exchanged a number of copies of The Times-Dispatch from the doorways of subscribers. His Honor's eyes grew stern as he thought of his own suffering and mental anguish should he have been deprived of the great morning paper and unable to read his own jokes.

"Ever just and always wise, he said: "It is natural for every one to desire to read the great Times-Dispatch. I will therefore be lenient." Robert Morton got ninety and Venerable Harkey got thirty days.

Venerable Fletcher, a ginger-bread colored man, was charged with assault and battery upon the body of Robert Hargrove, of ebony hue.

"Two-for-Fiver."

It developed that (Venerable, alias "George," had in passing Robert remarked that he was a "two for five nigger." Such a greeting greatly incensed Robert and unseemly language followed.

The "rag" was "chewed," and Venerable remarked casually that he would cut Robert's heart out, following his words with a practical demonstration.

Despite the fact that Venerable's only instrument was a small pocketknife, the job was fairly well done.

A yellow skin man, Telept Hankins, graphically described the encounter, and

Notice to Public!

The Jefferson Laundry announces to the public that they have completed the installation of their elegant new plant in the old Jefferson Laundry building, on Westwood avenue, which has been extensively improved, and are now ready to give to their patrons the best work and most prompt service at the old prices. Attention is called to the very fine water, a very large and efficient force of experienced employees and a new line of improved machinery. The laundry is being operated by twenty of the former drivers of other laundries, who desire to say to their friends that any inconvenience which they have suffered this week will not again occur, and solicit a continuation of their patronage.

ROCKEFELLER FEARS HADLEY, OF MISSOURI

Proceedings Against Standard Oil May Be Fun for Rogers, But Not for John D.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—Notwithstanding the great amount of fun Henry H. Rogers and a few other millionaires got out of Attorney-General Hadley and the Missouri proceedings against the Standard Oil Company, John D. Rockefeller considers the matter in a serious light. During the last week he has been kept busy in portraying the scene, gave evidence of historic ability.

Venerable was sent on to the grand jury. Mary Harris, a negro woman, sold furniture, purchased on the installment plan, to buy medicine for her sick child.

It was a piteous case, and His Honor made the sentence as light as possible, thirty days.

John Frazier, a negro, alias "Beef," flinched his aged father's "pants" and other ailments. "Beef" remarked that he had visited jail a score of times, after which he received ninety days.

The Walsh gambling cases were continued until Wednesday. Mrs. Margaret M. Walsh going on the bond.

Willie Slattery and Charlie Wells, white boys, were bound over for six months in the sum of $100, charged with stealing coal from the Chesapeake and Ohio.

The cases against John Henry Williams and L. H. Hayes were continued until Wednesday.

Sutton will play in Billiard tournament.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—George Sutton, the American player, sends words from Paris that he will come over in March to play in the 132 ball-tournament in April. He expects to come on the same ship with Louis Cure, the French player, who also is to play in the tournament.

Jose Morningstar, who returned from Paris last week, has been in Philadelphia since his return, and will be back in New York in a day or two. He will begin practice soon for the tournament. A run of 23 in practice is credited to Morningstar and one of 256 to Cure.

A few nights ago George Slossom averaged 50 for 60 points in 18.5 practice game. A friend of Jake Schaefer, writing from Chicago, says: "Jake is playing as good billiard player in the world as I have ever seen."

There are several in the tournament who are not to be overlooked for that matter, and it was in fact that Hope defeated Vignaux, though the youngster can go some at 13.2.

PULLMAN CAR PASSES NEXT TO BE ABOLISHED

Company Has Suffered By the Abolition of Free Riding.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

PITTSBURGH, PA., Jan. 22.—It was learned to-day that the Pullman Palace Car Company would shortly follow the action of the Pennsylvania and other railroads and do away with all free passes.

The Pullman company has been the greatest sufferer by the railroads doing away with the passes. Pass holders always felt rich enough to ride in the Pullmans. Hundreds of persons who have to pay railroad fare are travelling without the luxury of sleeping and parlor cars, and the business of the company has fallen off to such a degree that the number of Pullmans on the trains has been reduced. Railroad men as well as others will lose the Pullman passes.

Tried to Kill Pastor Who Converted Him

"Ice Outlook Bad, I'm Commanded to Slay You," Said Insane Man.

CATSKILL, N. Y., January 22.—His mind unbalanced, a victim of religious mania, Philip Robbins, proprietor of the Marion House, at South Cairo, was lodged in jail here yesterday on complaint of the Rev. H. I. Hoag, pastor of the Methodist Church here.

Robbins recently experienced religion through attendance at revivals conducted by Pastor Hoag. After singing hymns and quoting Scripture for the benefit of his neighbors, Robbins yesterday declared that God had commissioned him to slay the clergyman. He dashed off through mud three miles to the parsonage.

Confronting the Rev. Hoag, he commented briefly on the poor "lookout for ice," and then, with clenched fist, aimed a blow at the pastor's head, shouting: "God commanded me to kill you, and I must do it!"

The minister retailed, and when opportunity offered, darted past the madman and fled.

BUILD NEW JAIL IN THE COUNTY

Judge Scott Refuses to Consent to Repair of Present Structure.

GIVES REASONS IN LETTER

Will Have Accommodations for County School Teachers' Meetings.

The Board of Supervisors of Henrico county met yesterday afternoon, and after a long session, decided not to repair the old jail but to rebuild. At a previous meeting it had been decided that the jail should be remodeled and enlarged, for which $10,000 was voted. Architect Bryant was appointed to draw plans and bids were solicited. Three bids were made, the lowest being $15,000. The supervisors met Saturday, but after a long deliberation came to no conclusion. Judge Scott, who has the final voice on the question, refused to approve of the plans as they were, and wrote the following letter:

To the Board of Supervisors, of Henrico County.

Gentlemen,—It appears to me from the resolution, offered by Mr. Saunders, and adopted by you on January 20, 1906, for the changing of the Bryant plans, that I have been misunderstood. I wish to say that this plan provides for abutting the jail on the river, and with the lights before me I would not permit these prisoners to be kept in this manner. You should make provisions for sixty of such prisoners to be confined at night in cells, and each cell shall be so ventilated that the required quantity of air per hour for such prisoner shall be carried to each cell and discharged as used. The hospital should be protected and made safe, and brick walls will not comply with this requirement. I am informed that kitchen doors will permeate the courthouse, and if this is true, it will have to be moved after it is built. The present windows of the jail are not sufficient to give sufficient light, and the northern cells will get no sunlight, and this must be corrected. I earnestly recommend to you the building of a new jail, and, of all the plans I have examined, I would advise the selection of the Stewart Iron Works. You will be throwing away the county's money to attempt to remodel the present jail.

Very truly yours,

R. CARTER SCOTT.

Mr. Saunders Voted "No."

The question over which the supervisors expended most labor and thought was whether the new building should contain a room for the meetings of the principals and teachers of Henrico county. The present room would have to be torn down to make way for the new building, and there would be left nowhere for the teachers to meet. It was finally decided after a vote that a room for this purpose should be incorporated in the new structure.

A motion was made by Mr. Frayser that the plans of the Stewart Iron Works Company, without the jailer's residence, be accepted. As a substitute for this Mr. Saunders moved that the plans of the Stewart Iron Works be purchased, and that the jailer's residence be excluded from the plan, and that the same be perfected by an architect, and then the bids be advertised for under the said plan. This was lost by the following vote: Mr. Saunders, aye; Messrs. Barnes, Browning and Frayser, no.

The original resolution was adopted by just the reverse vote: Messrs. Frayser, Browning and Barnes, aye; Mr. Saunders, no. The Stewart Iron Works Company's bid at $42,000 was accepted.

The company's proposal to add a jailer's residence and so rearrange that part of the building as to accommodate the school authorities at an additional cost of $5,000 was then brought up. The vote on this proposal resulted in a tie, the recorded vote being as follows: Messrs. Barnes and Frayser, aye; Messrs. Browning and Saunders, no. To break the tie, Mr. Peyton, the commissioner, designated by the court, was sent for. After considering the matter carefully and showing considerable hesitation in the rather embarrassing situation, Mr. Peyton voted in the affirmative.

FIELD'S GOLD FOR YOUNG GRANDSON

Twelve-Year-Old Lad Will Be Wealthiest Youngster in America.

$50,000,000 TO DIVIDE

Widow, It is Said, Has Relinquished All Right to Dowry.

CHICAGO, Jan. 22.—Attorneys and relatives of Marshall Field are extremely reticent concerning his will. Aside from the admission that the value of the estate is, at a low estimate, $50,000,000, that an inheritance tax of about $1,000,000 will be paid to Illinois, and that Mr. Field left a will, the persons who have knowledge of Mr. Field's affairs have refused to satisfy public curiosity concerning the dead merchant's estate.

Naturally it is known who the principal beneficiaries will be.

If it be true, as has been stated, that Mr. Field's widow, at the time of the marriage, received $500,000 and relinquished her dower rights in the estate, she will not figure in the will.

The List of Legatees.

The principal legatees then will be: Mrs. Ethel Field, Beattie's daughter of Mr. Field. She is the wife of an English army officer stationed at Malta.

Marshall Field, 3d, twelve years old, grandson of Mr. Field.

Henry Field, ten years old, grandson. Gwendoline Field, three years old, granddaughter.

Mrs. Albertine Huck Field, widow of Marshall Field, 2d, who was killed by the accidental discharge of a revolver in his home, November 22, 1905.

Stanley Field, nephew of Mr. Field. Mrs. Henry P. Dibblee, sister of Mr. Field.

Mrs. L. D. James, sister of Mr. Field, of Williamsburg, Mass.

Joseph N. Field, Manchester, Eng., brother of Mr. Field.

Mrs. Augustus N. Eddy, sister-in-law of Mr. Field.

Mrs. Katherine Eddy, niece by marriage of Mr. Field.

Spencer Eddy, secretary to American Legation at St. Petersburg, nephew by marriage.

Mrs. A. A. Sprague, formerly Miss Frances Dibblee, niece.

Mrs. John C. King, formerly Miss Bertha Dibblee, niece.

Mrs. Preston Gibson, formerly Miss Minna Field, daughter of Henry Field, niece.

Mrs. Thomas Lindsay, of Boston, formerly Miss Florence Field, niece.

Mrs. Thomas Nelson Page, sister-in-law, formerly wife of Henry Field, brother of Mr. Field, and mother of Mrs. Gibson and Mrs. Lindsay.

It is expected that the bulk of the estate will go to Marshall Field, 3d, grandson of Marshall Field, of now twenty years old, and the last male member of the line bearing the family name. This will make him the wealthiest boy in all America. He lives at his mother's country home in Lakewood, N. J.

Young Field a Typical Boy.

Almost everybody in Lakewood knows the Field boy by sight; but very few of them know how thoroughly his life is filled with constant and arduous effort.

At present he dresses in deep mourning. He is gentle, unaffected and frank in manner, like dozens of other boys, and he likes pretty much the same things, such as tops and kites and marbles and guns, and all sorts of boyish sports.

Some time ago he was attacked with rheumatism at his home in Chicago, and he was taken to Lakewood at the request of his grandfather, who thought that the bracing air of that locality would tend to win back his health. He is receiving his education from a tutor of the Chicago University, preparatory to entering a college.

At 7 o'clock in the morning he is up and about, whistling in boy fashion, or frolicking with his dog. After breakfast he puts on his riding togs and telephones to the groom at the stables to bring around his pony. A few minutes later he is cantering over the smooth roads around Lakewood.

A five-mile canter and he is back again, ready for his morning studies. Arithmetic he does not like very much. It is too dry and prosy to suit his rather imaginative nature. But he does his sums with fine perseverance.

Then comes history, which has a very high place in his regard. In this particular study Master Field does not have to be spurred. Then comes a lesson in grammar, which he also regards as a rather tough proposition.

This brings him up to 11 o'clock, by which time he is rather tired. He usually goes to his own room and rests until luncheon, after which he resumes himself according to his bent of mind until 2 o'clock.

At 2 o'clock he is again in the study room with his tutor, ready for geometry. Geography comes next, and proves to be somewhat of a relief from the dry bones of geometry. Other standard studies follow, and late in the afternoon the young heir of the Field millions is ready for his grind in Latin.

After Latin it is only a step to French. At 6 o'clock he is through for the day. He is then a very tired boy, and is willing to cry quits with his tutor.
